CORONER FINDS NO MURDER EVIDENCE

Verdict Given That Olin C. Downs Met Accident Death on Pennsylvania Railroad Tracks.

SHOT HEARD ABOUT MIDNIGHT

No Marks of Violence Found on Body of North Vernon Man Discovered Early Sunday.

After investigating the rumors that Olin C. Downs, of North Vernon, whose body was found on the tracks of the Pennsylvania Lines near the Southeastern Line crossing early Sunday morning, might have been a victim of foul play, Coroner William Dickmeyer returned a verdict that Downs "accidentally met death by being run over by a Pennsylvania Railroad train while in an intoxicated condition." The report of one or more shots fired in the vicinity of the crossing about 11 o'clock Saturday night gave rise to the rumors that Downs might have been murdered and his body placed on the tracks to cover up the deed.

According to J. W. Hustedt, the undertaker in whose charge the body was placed, there was no evidence that Downs had been shot. Following the reports which were in circulation Sunday a close examination was made of the body but no bullet wounds were found. The body was completely cut in two and Mr. Hustedt says that if Downs was shot his body was placed on the tracks in such a position that the wheels of the train would pass over the wound. There were few scratches on the body and none that was serious. A small gash was found on the back of the head but the skull was not fractured.

The testimony that was given at the coroner's inquest which was held Sunday, indicates that Downs was intoxicated and that he attempted to climb on a moving train and fell under the wheels. The upper portion of his body was in the center of the track with the head turned towards the south. The lower part of the trunk was found on the west side of the rail of the main track.

The body was found by the engine crew of the southbound Pennsylvania train No. 6 which arrives in Seymour about 6 o'clock. The train was backed to the side track and the engineer notified Jesse Himler, the night ticket agent. The authorities were then informed of the location of the body which was soon removed to Hustedt's Undertaking Establishment. Apparently the man had met death several hours before. The coroner was also notified and came to Seymour Sunday morning and began his investigation.

According to the testimony given at the inquest, Downs came to Seymour Saturday morning. He was employed as a lineman by the North Vernon Telephone Company, of which L. C. Griffiths of this city, is owner. It is stated that he had been drinking during the day and late Saturday night went into one saloon where he was refused a drink because of his condition. He talked during the afternoon and night with a number of

TWO WEEKS MORE OF CIRCUIT COURT

Number of Cases Set for Trial Before Adjournment of October Term, November 20.

TWO SENTENCED TO PRISON

Three Others Found Guilty of Offenses Sent to State Penal Farm at Putnamville.

As the October term of the Jackson circuit court will close November 20 it is expected that the next two weeks will be unusually busy. A number of cases have been set for trial during that time and some of the attorneys will attempt to bring cases in which they are interested to a close before court adjourns. However, it is believed that most of the important cases have already been heard. The jury, it is known, will be called for several cases during the remaining two weeks of the term.

Since the October term convened one defendant has been sent to the Indiana State Prison at Michigan City, another has been sentenced to the Reformatory at Jeffersonville and three men have taken up their residence at the State Farm at Putnamville. Two of the sentences to the state farm are for a long period. Several state cases have been set for trial this term.

The grand jury returned but three indictments at its eight-days' session. It was expected that this body would find a large number of indictments and the report resulted in a smaller number of state cases. Usually after the grand jury adjourns some of the defendants are hauled into court immediately. Because of the small amount of business for the grand jury Judge Swails has ordered that hereafter that body shall be called into session but once a year, at the beginning of the October term of court. Heretofore the grand jury has sit twice a year.

There was little business before the court today. The case of Kindred against Rose was set for trial. In this case the plaintiffs asked for the foreclosure of a second mortgage. An agreement was reached out of court whereby the foreclosure was ordered and the plaintiffs were to receive judgment in the sum of $900.

The case of the state against John Applegate is set for trial Tuesday. In this case the defendant is charged with larceny and receiving stolen goods. A number of local people were subpoenaed this afternoon by Sheriff Robertson as witnesses.

John Ewing Dead.

John Ewing, who is about ninety-four years of age, died Saturday at the home of his son, J. B. Ewing, at Rivervale, where he had been living for four years. He was a native of Jennings county and lived there many years. He came to Jackson county about ten years ago and had a wide acquaintance in Hamilton township. The remains were brought to the home of his daughter, Mrs. Laura Robertson, at Brownstown, today. The funeral will occur Tuesday afternoon and the remains will be interred at the Robertson cemetery, near Honeytown.

Local People Have Narrow Escape Fifteen Years Ago

Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Hays, of this city, had an experience fifteen years ago today which would have been "snapped" by a motion picture man had one been on the scene at that time. There is no question but the "reel" would have been a popular one, but the experience was too real for the local people to repeat.

Mr. Hays has a copy of the St. Charles, Mo., Monitor, of November 8, 1900, which gives a graphic account of the accident. The story is as follows:

As Mr. E. H. Hays, a mover on the way from Wilson County, Kansas to Jackson County, Indiana, was driving off the Steamer Fawn, Thursday morning at 8:30 o'clock, at the ferry landing across the river from this city, his horses backed off the boat into the swift running current of the Missouri river. Mr. Hays and wife horses and covered wagon went into the river. At the time of the accident, Mr. Hays who was sitting on the front seat of his wagon, was driving his team across the gang-plank off the boat. The horses grew stubborn and began to back. Mrs. Hays was sitting on a feather bed in the wagon, but had no time to jump before the team had backed the wagon across the front of the boat, broke the railing and gone into the river. Mr. Hays jumped as the wagon went over and caught the side of the ferry boat and was rescued. The team, wagon and Mrs. Hays went into 20 feet of water and floated down the river. The current of the Missouri river at that point is very swift and filled with eddies. The wagon was submerged except the top and the horses until drowned, made violent efforts to free themselves from the harness and wagon. They kicked and reared and it is a wonder that the lady's life was spared in all their mad plunges. The husband was frantic, and with his 14-year old son, Vane Hays ran along the bank parallel with the floating wagon, intending to jump into the river and try to rescue Mrs. Hays.

Meantime Casper Koop and another employe on the boat got out a skiff and went to the rescue. They caught the wagon, and saved Mrs. Hays from drowning. The wagon was also captured and is now tied on the St. Louis County side of the river, from where it will be taken out as soon as possible. Mrs. Hays received treatment from Dr. H. H. Vinke of this city and was brought back to St. Charles and is now lying sick at the Galt-House.

EXCITEMENT IS FURNISHED FOR SUNDAY CHURCH-GOERS

Fight Takes Place Between Tony Allegro and Two Strangers in Front of Fruit Stand.

The quietude of Sunday morning was broken and church-goers were furnished unexpected excitement about 10 o'clock yesterday morning when a fistie encounter occurred in front of James Allegro's fruitstand on East Second street. There are two versions to the trouble. One is told by Tony Allegro, brother of the proprietor of the stand, and the other by two strangers who figured in the affray.

According to Allegro the men came into the fruit stand and asked if they could get a drink of liquor. He told them "there was nothing doing" and says that they were insulting and started to curse him. One of them wanted to buy some fruit, he says, but he refused to sell them, but told one of the strangers to take some of the apples and get out. Later they insisted on buying some English walnuts and after the sale was made they insisted that the walnuts were not good. The conversation ended in trouble during which Tony Allegro hit one man and when the other protested he was presented with a slap on the side of the face. The trouble attracted quite a number of people.

The strangers insisted that they were not at fault and without provocation Tony Allegro "started in" on them. Allegro swore out affidavits against the men, who lived at Indianapolis, but no warrants were issued. The strangers said they had no desire to prosecute Allegro and refused to appear against him. It is said that if Allegro had insisted on prosecuting the couple they would have filed counter-charges.

INDIANAPOLIS PHYSICIAN IN AUTOMOBILE ACCIDENT

Car Skids from Road and Hit Telephone Pole—Fenders Bent But Neither Occupant Hurt.

While driving from Indianapolis to New Albany in their automobile Sunday, Dr. and Mrs. Haskett L. Conner, of Indianapolis, escaped injury when their roadster skidded from the road and hit a telephone pole. The accident occurred north of the city.

At the time the machine left the highway it was moving about twenty-five miles an hour. Two wheels were running on grass along the side of the road which sloped towards the ditch. When the machine started to skid Dr. Conner was unable to control it and it headed straight for the pole. The fenders were bent but neither of the occupants was hurt. The machine was driven here where the repairs were made. Mrs. Conner suffered a slight nervous shock but was able to continue the trip in the afternoon. They were on their way to New Albany to spend several days with Dr. Conner's relatives.

Remains Shipped Here, His Former Home for Burial—Funeral Held This Afternoon.

The funeral of the late Reuben Kress, formerly of Seymour, who died Saturday afternoon at Jeffersonville, took place this afternoon at the residence of Mrs. Elizabeth Garvey. The burial was at Riverview cemetery.

Mr. Kress was almost ninety-two years old. He died of senility at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. John England, Jeffersonville, where he made his home. Mr. Kress was a great uncle of Mrs. England. He was born in Washington county February 24, 1824 and was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Christian Kress who came to Indiana from New York. He was unmarried. He was a veteran of the Civil War and for several years lived here when he had many friends.

KITCHIN DOES NOT APPROVE POLICY

Floor Leader of House Tells President Wilson He Will Not Support The Defense Program.

MEETING AT WHITE HOUSE

After Conference North Carolina Man Says He Regrets That He Cannot Support Measure.

By United Press.

Washington, November 8.—Representative Kitchin, house floor leader, said, after an hour's talk with President Wilson today, that he would not support the administration naval program.

When Kitchin entered the White House for the conference he said:

"I am going in to be shown." When Kitchin came out of the White House he said: "I had a very pleasant conversation with the President and all I can say is that I regret very much to say that I will be unable to support his program."

Kitchin said the army phase of the program was not discussed. Kitchin will not attempt to make an acrimonious fight against the defense program. He said today he will merely tell on the floor of the house why he cannot stand behind the president on the naval question.

"I think I can say that I will be of the minority," he said.

Kitchin said that the people of his North Carolina district are opposed to increases in the navy and also said that as a former member of the navy board of appropriations he felt he could not support the appropriations at this time.

ENGLAND'S NEW WAR CABINET IS CHOSEN

"Big Three" Will Have Direct Charge of Military and Naval Operations.

By United Press.

London, November 8.—England's new war council has been chosen, the Evening News announces today.

The members are: Premier Asquith, acting temporarily as minister of war; First Lord of Admiralty, Balfore; Minister of munitions, Lloyd George; Foreign Minister, Sir Edward Grey, who it is stated, will sit with this council when British foreign policies are involved.

The new council, "the big three," as the English are already calling them, will have direct charge of British military and naval operations. In ordinary matters they will act without consulting the rest of the cabinet. The rest of the ministers will take part in the discussions when vital naval policies are involved.

ENGLAND RESENTS AMERICAN NOTE

London Newspapers Seem "Hurt" at Attitude Taken by President Wilson Concerning Blockade.

STREET TALK IS VERY BITTER

Press, However, Explains that No Trouble is Expected Between the Two Countries.

By United Press.

London, November 8.—England is very resentful of the tone of President Wilson's note concerning the British blockade of the German coast.

Comment by the "man in the street" to-day is far more outspoken to this effect than were the newspapers. The latter, while vigorously defending the blockade and deploring what they term the "harsh wording" of the communication, are careful to explain that no serious trouble is to be expected between the countries and seemed hurt rather than angry at the American chief's attitude.

Individual utterances, however, are very bitter. The popular view seems to be that the President had the "hyphenated vote" clearly in mind in what he said, that he put American profits much higher than vital British necessities and that the most resolute answer ought to be returned to the effect that England does not propose to be hampered in its life and death struggle by American oversea trade.

"TOO MILD AND TOO LATE" IS THE GERMAN CRITICISM

Berlin Thinks the President Ought to Have Backed up Note With Veiled Threats at Least.

By United Press.

Berlin, November 8.—"Too mild and too late" was the general tenor of the criticism today of the American note to Great Britain concerning British interference with American trade at sea.

From a legal standpoint it was conceded that President Wilson made out an unassailable case. It was not with his argument that fault was found, but with the fact that he did not back them up as evidently the German think he ought to have done with some sort of a threat, veiled at least.

U.S. NOTE TO BRITAIN VIGOROUS

Declares Acts Are Not Legal.

BLOCKADE INEFFECTIVE

Must Insist Upon Maintaining Neutral Rights.

INJUSTICE TO AMERICANS

Would Urge International Law to Prevail.

Washington, Nov. 8.—The United States, in its latest note to Great Britain on British practices in interfering with American trade serves notice on Great Britain:

First. That it does not recognize as legal and effective the British blockade of Germany and Austria-Hungary.

Second. That it "cannot submit" to the curtailment of its neutral rights by measures which are "admittedly retaliatory and therefore illegal."

Third. That it must insist "that the relations between it and the British government be governed, not by a policy of expediency, but by established rules of international law."

Fourth. That it unhesitatingly assumes the task of championing the integrity of neutral rights and will devote its energies to that end.

Contrasted with the notes to Germany in the submarine controversy the communication to Great Britain, however, contains no phrases such as "strict neutrality" and similar expressions used by the president in pressing his demands on Berlin.

That the note will be read in comparison with the communication to Germany and that it will be studied in Berlin for proof of partiality toward the belligerents, is realized in official circles. The administration holds, however, that it was impossible to address Great Britain in quite the same manner as Germany in the submarine issue for the reason that the latter controversy involved a question of human, while the issues with Great Britain concern only property rights.

In this note the United States accepts even more frankly than in the controversy with Germany, the role of champion of neutral rights in the present war. Secretary Lansing says:

"It is of the highest importance to neutrals, not only of the present day but of the future, that the principles of international rights be maintained unimpaired. This task of championing the integrity of neutral rights, which have received the sanction of the civilized world against the lawless conduct of belligerents, arising out of the great conflict, which is now wasting the countries of Europe, the United States unhesitatingly assumes, and to the accomplishment of that task it will devote its energies, exercising always that impartiality which, from the outbreak of the war it has sought to exercise in its relations with the warring nations."

Summoned to Obedience.

The British government is summoned to obedience of international law in the following sentence, regarded here as the strongest in the entire note: "The government of the United States, therefore, desires to impress most earnestly upon his majesty's government that it must insist that the relations between it and his majesty's government be governed, not by a policy of expediency, but by those established rules of international conduct on which Great Britain in the past has called the United States to account when the latter nation was a belligerent engaged in a struggle for national existence."

The note includes, among other exhibits, a long list of neutral ships which have been illegally interfered with by the British. The list, with the details in each case, constitutes in effect, the indictment against Great Britain on which the note proper is based.

The note groups the causes for protest under three heads:

First. The seizure and detention of vessels on the high seas on mere suspicion.

Second. The so-called blockade policy.

Third. The unsatisfactory and unacceptable character of the regulations governing and the procedure of British prize courts.

The American protest on these three grounds of complaint is summarized as follows:

"I believe it has been conclusively shown that the methods sought to be employed by Great Britain to obtain and use evidence of enemy destination of cargoes bound for neutral ports and to impose a contraband character on such cargoes are without justification; that the blockade upon which such methods are partly founded is ineffective, illegal and indefensible; that the judicial procedure offered as a means of reparation for an international injury is inherently defective for the purpose and that in many cases justification is asserted in violation of the law of nations."

The note adds the additional warning that "the United States cannot submit to the curtailment of its neutral rights by these measures," or "with complacency suffer further subordination of its rights and interests to the plea that the exceptional geographic position of the enemies of Great Britain require or justify oppressive and illegal practices."

The newest matter in the note is that relating to the British prize court courts.

The note contends that the British prize courts acquire jurisdiction over neutral vessels by unlawful means. British authorities acting under British orders in council, many of which this government regards as in contravention of international law, seize neutral vessels on the high seas on mere suspicion and take them into British ports, where they are within the territorial jurisdiction of British domestic law. The British have no right, it is said, to extend domestic law, such as the orders in council, to cover seizures on the high seas.

With reference to the British claim that the United States took a similar position in the Civil war and referred foreign claimants to prize courts for redress, the United States note declares that Great Britain is mistaken.

With respect to the British blockade the United States holds that it is not a blockade in law, practice or effect. It is not effective in that German coasts are open to Scandinavian trade; it is not impartial because the northern neutrals are free to trade with Germany while the United States is virtually debarred from such trade.

Finally the note asserts that Great Britain herself has admitted increased exports to Scandinavian countries, which are free to trade with Germany.

The United States demands that searches be made entirely at sea and no vessel taken, as England has been taking them, into port, unless evidence is found on board her, in goods or in paper, sufficient to warrant a hearing before prize courts.

With reference to the charge that increased exports to neutrals raises a presumption of intended trans-shipment to the enemy, the United States flatly repudiates such a doctrine. It points out that British exports to these neutrals have increased.

"Great Britain cannot expect," Secretary Lansing asserts, "the United States to submit to such manifest injustice or to permit the rights of its citizens to be so seriously injured."

WOMAN IGNITES CLOTHING

Son, With One Arm, Saves Her Life
By Extinguishing Fire.

Petersburg, Ind., Nov. 8.—Mrs. Lauro Howard, fifty-six years old, who has been ill for several years, became despondent and poured a gallon of coal oil on her clothing and applied a match.

Her son, Bain Taylor, heard her cries for help as the flames enveloped the woman and rushed to her assistance. He only has one arm, but he managed to tear off the burning clothing, saving his mother's life. One of his fingers was almost burned from his hand and his arm is terribly burned. Mrs. Howard may recover.

PROTEST SUNDAY CLOSING

Chicago "Wets" Hold Monster Parade, Protesting Mayor's Order.

Chicago, Nov. 8.—Forty-one thousand men, women and children, representing the United societies, the "wet" organization, marched down Michigan avenue and through the streets in the downtown district in a parade, protesting against Mayor Thompson's recent order of law enforcement, closing the saloons of the city on Sunday.

The day was perfect and the returns indicate the liquor forces turned out their extreme strength. The demonstration was overwhelming foreign in its make-up.

The parade took hours to pass a given point. As the paraders marched, hundreds of men, supposedly acting in the interest of the city administration, took their names.

A grand jury action, it is said, will be demanded on charges of conspiracy. It is also arranged to demand an aldermanic investigation of the alleged conspiracy at the council meeting tonight.

$239,000,000 LOST IN MAIL FRAUDS IN FOUR YEARS

This Sum Has Been Taken by Schemes
Despite Vigilance of Federal Officers.

Fraudulent schemes ranging from offers of $100 to girls for the use of their photos in advertising a new brand of chewing gum to the sale of finger rings supposed to cure everything from St. Vitus dance to adenoids have swindled the American public of more than $239,000,000 in the last four years, according to postoffice officials.

In an effort to reduce this wholesale victimization the postoffice department has issued fifty-six fraud orders during the last year. The issuance of such an order denies the person named in it the use of the mails.

"The number of fraudulent schemes has been greatly diminished," said J. Julien Southerland, assistant solicitor of the postoffice department, who passes on most of the fraud order cases, "but the records show that during the last four years the schemes suppressed had filched from the public over $239,000,000. One concern had receipts of over $350,000 last year. The promoter of a fake anti-fat preparation spent $50,000 in a single month on advertising."

"During the last four years the department has had over 15,000 cases involving fraudulent use of the mails, and during that period has received and answered about 200,000 communications relating to fraudulent use of the mails."

"Last year investigations were undertaken in 4,000 cases, and over 40,000 complaints and inquiries were received."

During the Taft administration comparatively few fraud orders were issued, it being the position of the chief executive that persons guilty of violating the postal laws should be prosecuted in the courts.

It was pointed out, however, that legal delays of one sort and another often made it possible to conduct a fraudulent business for months and years. Even after conviction the fine was often much less than the government's cost of prosecution.

The present administration has adopted the policy of issuing a fraud order wherever one is believed to be warranted.

SEYMOUR PEOPLE PRAISE SIMPLE MIXTURE

Many in Seymour praise the simple mixture of buckthorn bark, glycerine, etc., known as Alder-i-ka. This remedy is the most THOROUGH bowel cleanser ever sold being even used successfully in appendicitis. ONE SPOONFUL relieves almost ANY CASE of constipation, sour or gassy stomach. ONE MINUTE after you take it the gasses rumble and pass out. Alder-i-ka cannot gripe and the INSTANT action is surprising. C. E. Loertz.

Great Old Remedy For Skin Diseases

S. S. S. Clears Skin of Eruptions Drives Poison From the System.

Get it fixed in your mind that skin eruptions, Scrofula, Eczema, burning itching skin, and all skin diseases are due entirely to impure and infected blood. If the trouble was on the outside of the skin, by simply washing and keeping it clean you could obtain relief—not even ointments, lotions, and salves, would be necessary. Agree with us in this belief, and your trouble can be relieved—you can be entirely restored to health. S. S. S. is a purely vegetable treatment that you can secure from your own druggist—it is a blood tonic that will purify your blood and cause a most decided abatement of your trouble, and finally make you entirely well. Fifty years ago S. S. S. was discovered and given to suffering mankind. During this period it has proven its remarkable curative properties as a blood purifier and tonic, and has relieved thousands of cases of disease caused by poor or impure blood, and chronic or inherited blood diseases. You can be relieved, but you must take S. S. S. Take it if only pimples appear, for they denote bad blood, and may be followed by the sufferings from torturing skin eruptions. Therefore be sure. Don't take chances, don't use lotions. Get S. S. S. from your druggist. If yours is a special case, write for expert medical advice to S. S. S. Co., Atlanta, Ga.

It Isn't Failure.

It isn't failure to have lost.
A battle you have nobly fought,
If buffeted and tempest-tossed
You failed to reach the goal you sought.

It isn't failure, though the prize
Into another's hands is placed;
A hero very often dies,
If dying keeps him undisgraced.

To bow unto a better man
Is not the worst thing you can do;
Success is not in things we scan,
But in the heart forever true.
It takes more courage far to fail,
Than win a victory undeserved,
To bear the taunts of those who rail,
Than from your purpose to be swerved.

Success is not in having won
The golden prizes of today;
It is not in the deeds you've done,
But rather it is in the way
You conquered, that you will be judged
When all of earth's accounts are in;
If you keep honor still unsmudged,
God does not ask of you to win.

THE CHARM OF MOTHERHOOD

Enhanced By Perfect Physical Health.

The experience of Motherhood is a trying one to most women and marks distinctly an epoch in their lives. Not one woman in a hundred is prepared or understands how to properly care for herself. Of course nearly every woman nowadays has medical treatment at such times, but many approach the experience with an organism unfitted for the trial of strength, and when it is over her system has received a shock from which it is hard to recover. Following right upon this comes the nervous strain of caring for the child, and a distinct change in the mother results.

There is nothing more charming than a happy and healthy mother of children, and indeed child-birth under the right conditions need be no hazard to health or beauty. The unexplainable thing is that, with all the evidence of shattered nerves and broken health resulting from an unprepared condition, and with ample time in which to prepare, women will persist in going blindly to the trial.

Every woman at this time should rely upon Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, a most valuable tonic and invigorator of the female organism.

In many homes once childless there are now children because of the fact that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound makes women normal, healthy and strong.

If you want special advice write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

A local B. & O. freight conductor was filling out a report blank on the untimely end of a cow which had got in the way of his train. He came to the question on the blank which said "advise disposition of animal." He wasn't sure, but he was willing to give the bovine the benefit of the doubt; so he wrote after the question, "kind and gentle."

The farmer, wearing a long face, entered the country drug store. "I've got something wrong with my stomach," he announced, "and I want you to give me something for it."

"All right," replied the apothecary cheerfully; "what are your symptoms?"

"Every little while something seems to rise up and settle back, and then by-and-by it rises up and settles back again."

The druggist stroked his chin reflectively. "Look here," he said gravely; "you haven't gone and swallowed an elevator, have you?"

A. F. OF L. CONVENTION HELD AT SAN FRANCISCO

Gompers and Representatives of Nearly Four Million Laborers, on Western Coast.

By United Press
San Francisco, November 8.—Samuel Gompers and representatives of nearly four million laborers of all classes in the United States were here at the opening today of the annual convention of The American Federation of Labor. There are 500 delegates. The convention will last two weeks.

The question of indorsing national prohibition is expected to cause much discussion in the convention. Matters of all degrees of importance affecting the various labor organizations represented, will be acted upon by the convention. President Gompers is expected to have considerable to say about the activities of foreign government agents fomenting trouble among laborers in munitions plants and elsewhere.

The question of the federation's endorsement or condemnation of increased national defense is expected to bring forth protracted discussion. Gompers and other labor leaders recently have declared themselves in favor of "reasonable" defense plans for the country. Just what constitutes "reasonable" defense will be up to the convention to say. Endorsement of the LaFollette sea men's law and action on the Eastland disaster at Chicago is expected.

Meetings of the union label, metal trades, mining, railroad and building trades branches of the federation will be conducted at the same time.

The condition of T. M. Jackson, North Chestnut street, remains practically unchanged.

ACTIVITY SHOWN BY PARTY LEADERS

National Democratic and Republican Committees are Ready for Campaign.

HOW CANDIDATES ARE NAMED

Three Cities want G. O. P. Convention in June and Five Bidding on Democratic Meeting.

By United Press.

Washington, Nov. 8.—The real, regular machinery which will pick and groom the next Republican and Democratic candidates for president will be started up in December.

With the meetings here of the National committees at that time, the dates and places of meeting of the Democratic and Republican conventions will be decided upon. From then on, committee headquarters here will be busily watching booms, primaries, delegations and the other details of the program of picking the president.

Chicago, Philadelphia and San Francisco are bidding for the republican convention. The seaboard cities find Chicago's central location is the chief thing they have to combat and each is going about offsetting this in her own way. The convention will be held the latter part of June.

Dallas, St. Louis, Chicago, Buffalo and Omaha are contenders for the democratic convention.

Responding to a demand following the last Republican convention, there has been a cut of ninety delegates, largely among the southern delegations, which represented districts in which there is little republican strength. The number cut off is as follows: Alabama, 8; Arkansas, 3; Florida, 4; Georgia, 12; Louisiana, 8; Mississippi, 8; New York, 2; North Carolina, 3; South Carolina, 7; Tennessee, 2; Texas, 14; Virginia, 9. It has been ruled that the Hawaiian, Philippine and Porto Rican delegates, numbering ten, cannot vote, and they are included in the ninety.

This brings the number of Republican delegates down to 988. The democratic delegation number 1,088. In nineteen states, the delegations are now chosen by primaries, and these are looked forward to with keen interest as showing the desires of the country in the matter of candidates. The primaries will be held as follows:

Indiana, March 7; Minnesota, March 14; New Hampshire, March 14; North Dakota, March 21; Michigan, April 3; Wisconsin, New York, Illinois, April 4; Iowa, April 10; Nebraska, Oregon, April 18; Massachusetts, April 25; Maryland, May 1; California, Ohio, May 9; Pennsylvania, May 16; New Jersey, May 23; South Dakota, West Virginia, June 6.

In Alabama, there is a primary bill pending in the legislature and in Vermont the primary bill passed will be voted upon at a referendum this winter. Of the 988 republican delegates, 582 or considerably over half, are named in this way, and slightly over half of the democratic delegates. The remainder are chosen in caucuses. Sentiment at democratic headquarters here is all Wilson. At republican headquarters officials are 'strictly neutral' on candidates.

The Commercial Club holds a place of peculiar importance in any city. To it are entrusted questions which affect the future advancement and welfare of the city. The various propositions to locate new industries are referred to that organization and to the directors and officers is left largely the responsibility of deciding the merits of each communication. In scores of other ways the Commercial Club helps the city.

During the last ten years there has developed a keen competition between cities as well as between dealers in all lines. It would be difficult for a live, well regulated city to make much progress without the assistance of some sort of an organization of this character. The Commercial Club is also needed for the further development of the city within. A city's advancement does not necessarily come from the outside. There are many activities in the city itself that can be taken up and encouraged that will result in a vast amount of good.

The local Commercial Club has been a valuable organization to Seymour. Its membership is composed of the men who desire to see Seymour grow and prosper. The officers and directors serve without compensation. Their reward is the fruits of their efforts. The officers and directors of the local organization have done much and are deserving of the credit accorded them.

The benefit coming from an organization of this kind depends upon the co-operation and support given by the members and the citizens generally. Every Seymour citizen is interested in the advancement of our city and accordingly ought to give their support to the Commercial organization. A good time to begin co-operating is now. Tickets are on sale for the banquet which has been arranged Friday night. Following the banquet the annual meeting and election of officers will take place. The year's work of this organization will be indicated by the attendance at this meeting. Give it a good start by your presence.

THE PRESIDENT'S NOTE.

It would be difficult for this country to protest to any of the warring European countries without receiving in reply a vigorous protest. It is even almost impossible to draft a note to one faction that would be satisfactory to another unless the communication was drastic and threatening. But the United States as a neutral country cannot do this.

When the world is at peace American communications to foreign countries are couched in the most friendly terms. The United States now is at peace with the world and consequently her notes must be framed accordingly.

England may accuse this country of placing "American profits above British welfare," and palpably untrue as this may be, it is only natural that the English should view any protest in this light. All America is asking is that she be given the rights which are due by international law to a neutral nation. Surely we have the rights of the seas. The seas belong to all nations to be used by all. Any country only can exercise jurisdiction along the limited coast boundaries.

The shipment of American goods to Holland and other neutral ports are made in good faith. If such exports are sent to any of the belligerent nations after they reach such neutral ports the responsibility rests there, not with the United States. Such shipments are made according to the laws of the nations which have been approved by European powers. America's legal position cannot be questioned and because of the spirit of fairness which characterizes the note to Great Britain there is no fear of this country becoming involved in international disputes at this time.

WOODLAND AND FIELDS IN JENNINGS COUNTY BURNED

Farms of James Douglass, Dr. A. B. Irwin and John C. Trembly Swept by Flames.

More than one hundred acres of woodland and fields in Jennings county were swept by fire Sunday night and the loss will reach hundreds of dollars. The fire was on the farms of James Douglass, Dr. A. B. Irwin and John C. Trembly. Mr. Trembly lives at Columbus and is a grocery salesman.

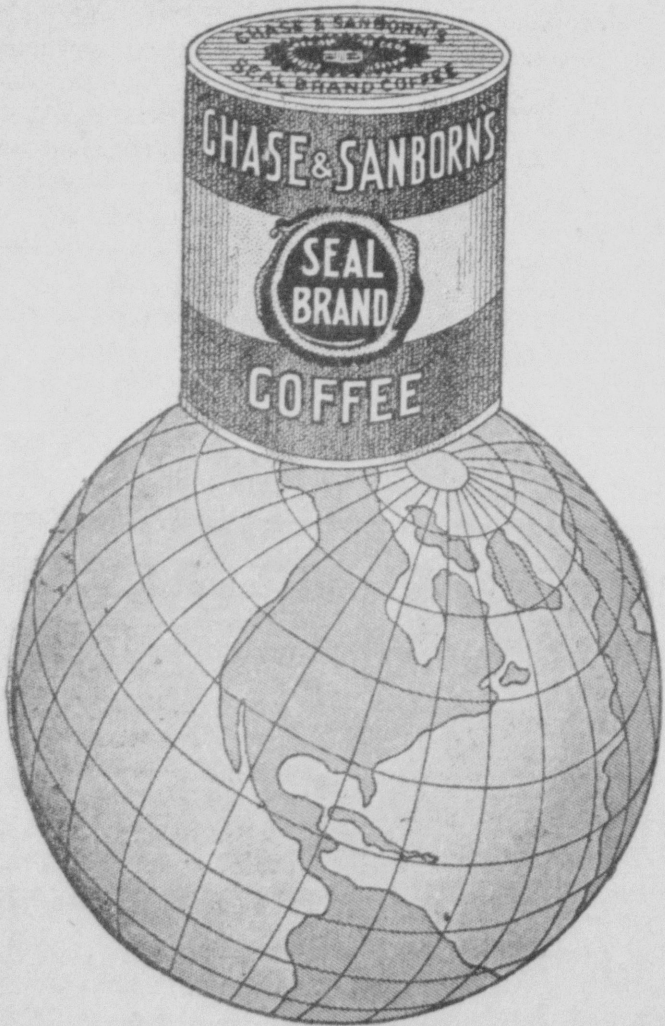

It is not known how the fire started. Dr. Irwin told the Republican this afternoon that he had received word of the fire and had sent several men to the farm to assist in extinguishing the flames. He said at the last report the fire was rapidly spreading towards a lumber pile which contained between eight and nine thousand feet of timber. He believes that this was destroyed. He also stated that the fire had burned over a large track of woodland and many line fences and cross fences had been consumed. He did not know late this afternoon whether or not the fire was under control but thought that the farmers were still fighting it.

The Winona Club celebrated the first anniversary of its organization Saturday. In the afternoon a very interesting program was given and consisted of readings and cornet solos. After the program a banquet was served from six to seven o'clock.

The evening session was devoted to the business of the organization. Several new points were brought up for discussion one which was the organization of the annual union convention.

The Winona Club is a boys' organization. The first meeting was held Saturday afternoon, November 7, 1914 when but four members were enrolled. Since that time new members have joined from time to time until the membership roll now numbers fourteen.

DINNER PARTY.

Mr. and Mrs. William Sullivan entertained at dinner Sunday at their home on North Ewing street, in honor of their guests, Mr. and Mrs. Will Williamson and son, of Terre Haute, Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Plummer and children, of Sparksville. Other guests were: Mr. and Mrs. Roscoe Speer and daughter, Elder and Mrs. G. M. Shotts and daughter, Miss Luella Shotts. An elegant dinner was served during the noon hour.

SOPHOMORE PARTY.

The gymnasium of the Shields high school was the scene of a jolly gathering Saturday evening, when the boys of the Sophomore class entertained the girls of the class. The gymnasium was decorated in the high school colors, purple and white. Refreshments consisting of cake, sherbet and punch were served. The evening passed very enjoyably with games and contests of various kinds. The Misses Andrews, Davison and Laupus, of the faculty, were present.

ENTERTAINED.

Misses Helen and Mary Lee Galbraith very charmingly entertained a company of friends Saturday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Miller, North Walnut street, in honor of their guest, Miss Gail Marshall, of Loogootee. The evening was spent at bridge and dancing, after which the guests repaired to the Galbraith home, where an elegant luncheon was served.

AUTO PARTY.

Misses Louise, Frieda and Carrie Aufderheide, Effie Tovey and Edward McCrary composed a automobile party that motored to Indianapolis Sunday and spent the day the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Head and family.

ENGAGEMENT ANNOUNCED.

Dr. and Mrs. B. S. Shinness, of this city, announce the engagement of their sister, Miss Viola Rice, of Louisville, Ky., to Mr. Robert T. German, of Louisville. The wedding will be solemnized in December.

CABIN PARTY.

Misses Irene McGinnis, Bernette Birch, Lesta Birch, Elsie Reynolds, Mrs. Harold Stewart, and Harold Stewart, Geo. McLaughlin, Cliff Starr, Roy Roegge and Chas. Hess enjoyed a week-end party at Peters' Cabin.

GREEK CABINET IS RE-FORMED

Premiership Goes to M. Shouloudis.

RUMORS OF CONCILIATION

King Constantine and M. Venizelos Said to Have Ended Differences—May Mean to Advantage of the Allies.

London, Nov. 8.—Definite light on the inner political situation in the Hellenic kingdom is prevented owing to the rigid censorship in the Greek capital.

There is much talk of a conciliation between king Constantine and M. Venizelos, despite the latter's veiled attack on the sovereign in the parliament session, which brought about the overthrow of the Zaimis government. Such a conciliation, on the other hand, would foreshadow a change of the monarch's attitude favorable to the allies, inasmuch as the ex-premier strongly contends for Greek intervention on the side of the entente powers.

The only piece of news bearing a character of positiveness is a Reuter dispatch from Athens saying that King Constantine has appointed M. Skouloudis minister of foreign affairs and premier.

M. Skouloudis, the dispatch says, has been charged with the formation of a new ministry, to succeed that of Alexander Zaimis, overthrown by ex-Premier Venizelos, through the refusal of the latter's parliamentary majority to give a vote of confidence. It is understood all the members of the Zaimis cabinet, except M. Zaimis himself, will retain their portfolios in the next ministry.

Other dispatches insist there is a possibility that M. Zaimis will yet accept the king's offer to reconsider his resignation. In view of the strong and determination of the Venizelos party, this is regarded here as unlikely.

TO PROBE MYSTERIOUS FIRES

Indiana Officials Asked to Seek Cause of Conflagrations.

Evansville, Ind., Nov. 8.—City and state officials are seeking the cause for a series of mysterious fires which in the last three weeks have done $278,000 damage here.

On Oct. 22 fire destroyed the warehouse of the Beach & Fuller Basket company with a loss of $8,000. Within a week the Evansville Warehouse company's building was destroyed by fire from an unassigned cause with a loss of $100,000, and $120,000 damage was done in the destruction of the Telfrich Planing mill early this week.

The planing mill of the International Iron and Steel Construction company was destroyed by fire, with a loss of $50,000, and no cause has been found. An explosion was heard before the outbreak of the flames.

POSSE KILLS ONE OF TRIO

Negroes Accused of Shooting Wabash Train Conductor.

Taylorville, Ill., Nov. 8.—A posse of one thousand men, headed by Sheriff Barnes of Christian county, surrounded in a wood north of here three negroes accused of shooting Guy A. Winters of Decatur, shot one of the negroes to death and captured a second one. Winters is a Wabash train conductor. He was shot when he put the negroes off his train. He will recover.

The posse is still beating the brush for the third man. In fear of a lynching the sheriff notified Governor Dunne, who said he would rush assistance to the sheriff in case of mob violence.

AIRSHIP STARTS FROM SHIP

Is Successful Launched From Speeding Cruiser.

Washington, Nov. 8.—When a navy aeroplane was shot into air at Pensacola from the decks of the cruiser North Carolina while the ship was in motion, a new feat in aviation was accomplished, and a device upon which navy airmen have been working for three years proved a success. The result opens up new possibilities for navy aeroplanes, as the device permits them to be launched without the aid of a platform obstructing gun fire.

The device consists of a track extending along the ship's after decks, upon which is a car.

Interned German Officers Arrive.

Honolulu, T. H., Nov. 8.—Lieutenant Vonelpon of the German navy, one of the officers of the German gunboat Cormoran interned at Guam, was a passenger on the United States army transport Logan, which arrived here. Vonelpon and three of the Cormoran's sailors, two of them insane and one ill, are on their way to report to the commandant of the Norfolk navy yards.

ONE KILLED; SIX HURT WHEN AUTO IS DITCHED

Tragic End of All-Night Ride of "Joy Riders."

Indianapolis, Nov. 8.—A young woman was killed and six persons were injured, some seriously, when an automobile carrying "joy riders" crashed through a fence and fell over an embankment on the West Tenth street road, near Little Eagle creek bridge at 6 o'clock in the morning.

The accident occurred a few feet west of the bridge over the creek. The party was returning to Indianapolis after an all-night ride in which several roadhouses and a camp on West Tenth street, two miles west of the city limits, were visited.

The car, which was driven by Harry Young, chauffeur for the Layroth & Chub Taxicab company, 18 West Ohio street, is said to have been traveling at a terrific rate of speed.

The dead: Miss Mae Crawley, twenty-one years old, 3202 McPerson avenue.

The injured: Samuel Hafer, twenty-three years old, 662 Rich avenue; forehead and face lacerated; Smith Hall, twenty-two years old, 1141 South Senate avenue; face and body lacerated; Charles Hogan, twenty-eight years old, 536 East New York street, body bruised and spine injured; Harry Young, twenty-three years old, 516 Somerset avenue, slightly bruised; Miss Mable Osterhof, twenty-three years old, 436 North Illinois street, head bruised, suffering from hemorrhages; Miss Frances Talbert, twenty-six years old, St. Charles hotel, bruised.

RUSSIANS REPORT SUCCESS

Capture 8,500 Germans in Southwestern Theater of War.

London, Nov. 8.—The capture of 8,500 Germans in the southwestern theater on the River Stripa, is reported by the latest official statement issued by the Russian war office. The statement tells of violent, but futile efforts on the part of the Germans to wrest the prisoners from the captors. Another Russian success is claimed by Petrograd in the fighting around Rafalovka, on the Kovno Sarny railroad. Here the czar's forces took twenty-two officers and 712 men.

The German war office in its official report reports the continuance of the Russian attacks around Dwinsk and southwest and south of Riga. Russian troops who entered German positions northwest of Lake Swekon two nights ago, were ejected.

MINISTER-JUSTICE RESIGNS

Accused of Graft, Eighty-Year-Old Preacher Quits Office.

Goshen, Ind., Nov. 8.—Charged with extortion in the levying and collection of fees in his office as justice of the peace, the Rev. John A. Wood, eighty years old, an ordained Christian church minister, submitted his formal resignation as justice.

The Rev. W. H. Greenwalt, a Dunkard minister, 6 feet 4 inches high and weighing 298 pounds, who was appointed a policeman here through the Civic league for the express purpose of "cleaning up the town," arrived from Cando, N. D., where he has been working. He came 933 miles to take the police assignment, which pays $55 a month.

Injured Boy's Father Gets Message.

Washington, Nov. 8.—President Wilson sent a telegram to the father of Mario Passi, the boy who fell in front of the president's automobile and was slightly injured in New York. The president expressed solicitude and regret.

ILLNESS COSTS NATION MILLIONS

Staggering Sick Bill Leads to Plan For Health Bodies.

RESULTS OF INVESTIGATION

Statistics Show That In a Representative Community Where Investigators Worked the Annual Loss Through Sickness Is $5 Per Capita—Plan to Reduce This to Minimum.

If an estimate were to be made of the losses that the people of the United States sustain each year through the inadequate care given to the sick that could be remedied the figures would be staggering.

The cost in money would run into the hundreds of millions. In hours lost from work that cannot be replaced, representing a shrinkage in the nation's productive capacity, the record would be measured in billions.

Other losses that affect every industry, our educational institutions, agricultural production and, in fact, the activities in all walks of life, would reach a total of alarming magnitude.

That such conditions exist and are not appreciably realized, or at least recognized as they should be, is strikingly illustrated in a recent comprehensive report published by the committee on hospitals of the New York State Charities' Aid association, covering the sickness in Dutchess county, N. Y.—its extent, care and prevention—during the entire year of 1912 and four months of 1913, a summary of which appears in the Survey.

Money Loss $5 Per Capita.

Figures taken from this summary show that, roughly estimated, the money loss to the 88,000 people living in this comparatively small county, in one state, during the investigation period amounted to at least $412,000—a toll exacted by sickness of nearly $5 per capita per annum.

How much of this loss could have been saved had the plans for providing organized and scientific adequate care for the sick been operative has not been figured in dollars and cents, but it doubtless would have been as large as 42 per cent if the cases investigated did not have such adequate care.

Another interesting feature distinctly brought out is that 75 per cent of these cases in which inadequate care was recorded poverty was not the cause. In most cases money played no part, the lack of care being due mostly to the absence of facilities for providing the needed services required, while in others there was a surprising lack of knowledge as to what care was needed and where to seek the service and help that would provide it.

As the conditions found in Dutchess county are believed by the committee to be typical of similar conditions existing throughout the entire country from coast to coast, the value of this report as a warning to the nation that this gigantic wastage accruing from the inadequate care given the sick is an evil that exists and which should be checked cannot be overestimated.

Thousands Cases of Sickness a Month.

In the findings of this study, relating to the extent of sickness and time lost, many interesting deductions and records have been made. Five districts in the county were investigated, all of a representative character. Out of a population aggregating 11,800 people 1,600 cases of serious illness were found for the sixteen month period, or approximately 14 per cent of the people living there, with 987 patients acutely ill. In round figures 9,000 cases were lost by men and women of working age (fifteen to fifty-four). Children up to sixteen years of age lost approximately 13,700 school days, at an average cost to the communities of 33 cents for each child. These two items alone safely cost these five districts from $20,000 to $25,000.

It was found that 76 per cent of the sick had medical attention, among whom less than 10 per cent went to hospitals, although the percentage of those who should have gone to such institutions was much larger. Of those who were cared for at home only 55 per cent were cared for adequately. The report especially shows how the remaining 45 per cent failed to receive the proper care that should have been given them.

A most interesting suggestion is one advocating the organization of county health associations.

These associations when organized are to represent in the health field what the boards of trade and commercial associations are to the welfare of the commercial life of communities. Through the agency of such county health associations the co-operation of hospitals, physicians, boards of health and private medical and social service organizations is sought.

The main objects which such an association would seek systematically to carry out for the benefit of the sick and with the idea of eliminating unnecessary suffering and financial losses would be:

Establishing an efficient system of nursing and social service for the care of the sick in their own homes, through the formation of centers, where nurses, physicians and suitable domestic help would be registered and available day and night.

Securing the co-operation of all existing hospitals in continuous sections so as to extend their facilities over a wider area.

NATION SEEKING MORE REVENUE.

Must Find a Way to Raise About $1,240,000,000.

DEFENSE THE BIGGEST ITEM.

Plans For Army and Navy Call For Expenditure of Vast Sums—Committees Now at Work Devising an Efficient Method to Meeting Deficit That Is Sure to Arise.

The question of finances promises to occupy much time in the approaching session of congress—how is the government going to raise sufficient revenue to meet the ordinary running expenses of the nation and at the same time provide funds to carry out the proposed improvements in the army and navy.

As yet no definite method has been outlined by the leaders of the party in power, and before the revenue raising bills are passed there will be much debate, pro and con, from both the small and the big army and navy advocates.

The largest estimates of government expenditures ever submitted to a secretary of the treasury of the United States in time of peace were presented for the next fiscal year, as required by law, for discussion by congressional committees in advance of the regular session. They are being examined in detail by President Wilson and his cabinet.

With an estimated increase for national defense of about $150,000,000 over last year, together with the cost of new tasks imposed on the state department and other branches of the government by reason of the European war, it is probable the amount of expenditures will be augmented to a total of about $1,240,000,000.

Plans For the Navy.

Secretary Daniels has prepared a five year building program for the United States navy which contemplates the creation of a new fleet.

This program provides for from fifteen to twenty-eight fighting ships of the dreadnaught and battle cruiser types, with a proportionate number of seagoing submarines, coast submarines, scout cruisers, destroyers and auxiliaries.

President Wilson and Secretary Daniels are agreed that to be adequately prepared for defense the present strength of the fleet must be almost doubled in the next five years, with the addition of many of the latest type of fast and powerful fighting craft.

The five year naval program when completed would add, in addition to dreadnaughts and battle cruisers, nearly a hundred submarines, about seventy destroyers and several scout cruisers, and a proportionate number of fuel and hospital ships.

$245,000,000 This Year.

The total cost of the proposed program for the first year, according to present plans, is estimated at nearly $245,000,000, or about $100,000,000 increase over last year.

Complete plans for defense of New York against land attack by an invading army have been prepared by the war department. Similar plans for Boston and Philadelphia have been worked out.

Every foot of ground within striking distance of New York has been gone over by military officers, and the topography has been mapped. These maps indicate where and how trenches shall be dug, the number of tools necessary and the number of men required.

The plans are locked in safe deposit boxes, subject to the instant call of army officers on duty at the various military headquarters.

Military experts are now experimenting with trench digging tools that are expected to take the place of pick and spade, but meanwhile thousands of shovels are being manufactured to be stored in each important city.

The Army Program.

The army program as it now stands calls for substantially the following:

First.—Establishment of training camps to teach the rudiments of warfare to 133,000 men expected annually to enlist. Each citizen soldier will receive six months' actual training during three years.

Second.—The addition to the aerial equipment of the army of at least twenty aeroplanes of most modern type.

Third.—The purchase of armored motor vehicles such as are now being used successfully in the European war.

Fourth.—Large increases in the artillery branch of the service, now lamentably weak.

Fifth.—The laying in of vast supplies of reserve ammunition.

Sixth.—A standing army whose strength will be a compromise between the figures of the "small army" advocates, who are opposed to any increase, and the "big army" forces that desire an army of 200,000 to 300,000 men. The addition of ten infantry regiments and forty-six companies of coast artillery is now the plan of the administration.

This means that the president will ask congress for a total appropriation of $184,000,000 for the army in the year 1915-16. The total will be about $75,000,000 more than the last budget for the army.

RENEW SEARCH FOR DEAD IN FIRE RUINS

Believe One Victim Has Not Been Found.

New York, Nov. 8.—After twelve bodies had been recovered and identified and a renewed search having been started of the ruins for the bodies of other victims, a report, indicating that the fire, which swept the five-story factory building at 285-287 North Sixth street, Williamsburg, was of incendiary origin, became a matter of official investigation.

The thirteenth person supposed to have died is John Lachinsky, forty years old, of 215 North Fifth street.

Captain Shaw, of the Bedford avenue police station, said that after careful study of the lists of persons employed in the companies having headquarters in the burned building, he had reached the conclusion it was unlikely that more than one other person besides the twelve victims whose bodies have been found, perished in the fire, which, for scenes of horror approached the Triangle shirtwaist factory disaster.

While the police said that they did not expect to recover any more bodies in the ruins, Captain Shaw admitted that it was possible the list of dead might exceed thirteen. Firemen were put to work pumping the water out of the cellar and it was said that there was a chance more bodies might be found there.

BABIES' FOOTPRINTS TELL.

Chicago Hospital Adopts New System of Identification.

Use of footprints to prevent confusion in the identification of babies has been adopted in Chicago's largest maternity hospital. The prints are obtained in the first hour of life. The infant's foot is pressed against an ink pad, and then the ink foot is placed on a paper of moderate gloss, on which the impression of the tiny lines is made.

This new method of identification is regarded as a permanent record of value from a scientific standpoint. Experts say the lines will never change. There will be no chance, they contend, for a substitution of babies.

AERO DEFENSE FOR NEWPORT

Monnaies at Fashionable Summer Colony to Purchase Aircraft.

Through the efforts of Vincent Astor, Robert Goelet, George I. Scott, George D. Widener, Jr., and other rich men a fund has been raised by summer residents in Newport for purchasing aeroplanes for the defense of Rhode Island in connection with the national guard. The fund thus far amounts to $10-250, and the committee in charge hopes to obtain sufficient funds to buy a squadron of fliers.

TEUTONS TURN ARMY TO EAST

Suddenly Shift Their Forces In Serbian Invasion.

OBJECTIVE CONSTANTINOPLE

Continuance of Invasion of Central and Western Serbia Is Left to the Austro-Hungarians, Who Are Making Progress Slowly.

London, Nov. 8.—An important shift in the armies on the part of the Teutonic invaders in Serbia has been made within the past forty-eight hours—a shift which, eventually, began simultaneously with the fall of Nish into the hands of the Bulgarians, and which is illustrated by the official German and Austrian war office reports.

Thus the Germans under von Gallwitz, after taking Kraljevo and after Nish had fallen to their Balkan allies, instead of continuing their southward sweep, have turned suddenly to the east, with the Orient line as the goal, leaving the continuance of the invasion of central and western Serbia to the Austro-Hungarians, which were last reported fighting along the Bosnian frontier, around Visegrad, advancing only slowly.

Berlin announces that General von Gallwitz's army has reached a point in the Morava valley northwest of Krusevac. This places the Germans thirty-five miles from Nish as they can reach the Orient railroad in a five-mile march at Junis, which lies thirty miles northwest of the war capital. To clear this sector of the Orient line of Serbians and thus definitely gain a clear road to Constantinople, will be von Gallwitz's aim, and he is supported by the von Koevess' army on the eastern bank of the Morava, while a Bulgarian army is approaching the railway from the northeast.

The troops of the dual monarchy promptly took up the path the Germans left, and already have stepped into their Germanic allies' footsteps all along the line in western Serbia. They are now moving southwest and southeast and southward, with Novibazaar and Mitrovica apparently their ultimate aim.

In this movement the Austro-Hungarians, according to the official German statement have driven the Serbians from the Gracina heights, and are moving on Ivanjica, twenty-seven miles southwest of Kraljevo.

The chain of the invading armies now forms an almost horizontal line, with the Austro-Hungarians constituting the right wing, the Germans the center and the Bulgarians the right wing. The chain is extended in the south by the Bulgarians holding the Salonica-Nish railroad from Kuprili, to Nish.

The main purpose of the left and center of this army chain, military critics here agree, is to force the main Serbian forces further and further south and with pressure from the Bulgarians from the east, drive the defenders of the little kingdom toward the Albanian frontier as the only outlet.

EMPLOYEES HELD FOR GRAFT

St. Louis Water Office Clerks Charged With Grand Larceny.

St. Louis, Mo., Nov. 8.—Three employees of the city water office and two deputy sheriffs have been indicted as a result of grand jury investigations of alleged graft.

Bench warrants were issued for the five men. Robert H. Mahon, water inspector, recently discharged; Robert H. Benzel and Frank White, department deputy collectors; Arthur H. Harrison and J. Frank Casey, deputy sheriffs, are the men indicted. The indictments charge grand larceny and the obtaining of money by false pretenses.

GIVES BOY COMPANION LYE

Frankfort, Ind., Nov. 8.—Clarence Timmons, four-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. George Timmons, is in a critical condition at his home here as a result of eating a quantity of concentrated lye, which he mistook for sugar.

The child was playing with Roy Baker, nine years old, who had a can of lye. The Baker boy told the child it was sugar and to open its mouth and he would give it some. The little child opened its mouth and young Baker poured a quantity of the lye into it.

Accuse Broker of Theft.

Pittsburg, Pa., Nov. 8.—James H. Snowden of Indianapolis (Ind.) has sworn out a warrant against John L. Moore of the firm of John L. Moore & Co., brokers, charging the embezzlement of $14,000. According to Snowden, Moore appropriated for his own use stock belonging to Snowden.

Acquitted of Arson.

Noblesville, Ind., Nov. 8.—Ralph Crum, who has been on trial here for a week, charged with arson, was acquitted by a jury. The indictment charged that Crum set fire to his store in the K. of P. block in Cicero last May. The state fire marshal was represented in the prosecution.

CHAPTER XXII.

That spring new buildings went up at the school and brave rows of flowers appeared in the garden.

At first her college had been a kindergarten in effect, but now as Juanita stood on the porch at recess she wondered if any other schoolmistress had ever drawn about her such a strange assortment of pupils. There were little tots in bright calico, glorying in big bows of cotton hair-ribbon—but submitting grudgingly to the combing of the hair they sought to adorn. There were larger boys and girls, too, and even a half-dozen men just now pitching horseshoes and smoking pipes—and they also were learning to read and write.

In the afternoons women rode in on mules and horses or came on foot, and Juanita taught them not only letters and figures, but lessons looking to cleaner and more healthful habits.

May came with smiles and songs in the sky from sunrise to sunset, and in the woods, where the moisture rose and tender greens were sending out their hopeful shoots, the wild flowers unfolded themselves. Then Juanita Holland and Anse Havey would go together up to the ridge and watch the great awakening across the brown and gray humps of the hills, and under their feet was a carpet of glowing petals.

Anse Havey had never had such a companionship, and hidden things began to waken in him.

So when she stood there, with the spring breeze caressing the curling tendrils at her temples, and blowing her gingham skirt about her slim ankles, and pointed off, smiling, to his house, he dropped his head in mock shame.

"Only the castle moodily gloomed to itself apart," she quoted in accusation, and the man laughed boyishly.

"I reckon ye haven't seen the castle lately," he said. "Ye wouldn't hardly know it. It's gettin' all cleaned up an' made civilized. The eagle's nest is turnin' into a sure-enough bird cage."

"Who's changing now?" she bantered. "Am I civilizing you or—her eyes danced with badinage—"are you preparing to get married?"

His face flushed and then became almost surly.

"Who'd marry me?" he savagely demanded.

"I'm sure I don't know," she teased. "Whom have you asked?"

He bent a little forward and said slowly:

"Once ye told me I was wasting my youth. Ye 'lowed I ought to be captain of my soul. If I found a woman that I wanted and she wouldn't have me—what ought I to do about it?"

"There are two courses prescribed in all the correspondence schools, and both are perfectly simple," she announced with mock gravity. "One is simply to take the lady first and ask her afterward. The other is even easier; get another girl."

"Oh," he said. He was hurt because she had either not seen or had pretended not to see his meaning. She had not grasped the presumptuous dream and effrontery of his heart.

His voice for a moment became enigmatical as he added: "Sometimes I think ye've played hell in these mountains."

That spring silent forces were at work in the hills; as silent and less beneficent than the stirring sap and the brewing of showers.

Three men in the mountains were now fully convinced that what the world needs the world will have, and they were trying to find a solution to the question which might make their own people sharers in the gain, instead of victims. These three were Anse and Milt and Jeb, and their first step was the effort to hold landowners in check, and make them slow to sell and guarded in their bargaining.

Jim Fletcher, a mountain man who had for years drifted between Tribulation and Winchester trading in cattle and timber, made a journey through the hills that spring, and was everywhere received as "home folks." For him there were no bars of distrust, and he was able for that reason to buy land right and left. Though he had paid for it a price above the average it was a price far below the value of the coal and timber it contained—and Jim had picked his land.

Anse Havey and his associates knew that Jim Fletcher had been subsidized; that the money he spent so lavishly was not his own money; and that the came as a stalking-horse, but they did not know that he had been to Louisville and had conferred there with Mr. Trevor. Neither did they know at once that he had visited the cabins of every malcontent among both the former factions, and that he was a mischiefmaker adroitly laying here in the hills the foundations for a new feud.

Jim had a bland tongue and a persuasive manner, and he talked to the mountain men in their own speech, but he was none the less the advance agent of the new enemy from down below: the personal fulfillment of Juanita's prophecy to Roger Malcolm. Juanita did not realize how much she was leaning on the strength of Anse Havey, how she depended on him for counsel and encouragement, which he gave not in behalf of the school, but because he was the school teacher's slave. She saw the little hospital rise on the hill and thought of what it would do, and she believed that Anse Havey must be, in his heart, converted, even though his mountain obstinacy would not let him say so.

Then, while the hillsides were joyous with spring, came a squad of lads with transit and chain, who began running a tentative line through the land that Jim Fletcher had bought. Anse Havey watched them grimly with folded arms, but said no word until they reached the boundary of his own place.

There he met them at the border. "Boys," he said, "ye musn't cross that fence. This is my land, an' I forbids ye."

Their foreman argued. "We only want to take the measurements necessary to complete our line, Mr. Havey. We won't work any injury."

Anse shook his head. "Come in, boys, an' eat with me an' make yourselves at home," he told them, "but leave your tools outside."

Men from the house patrolled the boundary with rifles and the young men were forced to turn back.

But later they drew near the house of old Bob McGreegor, and he, stealing down to the place in the thicket of rhododendron, saw them perilously near the trickling stream which even then bore on its surface little kernels of yellow corn. Deeply and violently old Bob swore as he drank from his little blue keg, and when one day he saw them again he asked counsel of no man. He went down and crept close through the laurel, and when his old rifle spoke a schoolboy from the Blue Grass fell dead among the rocks of the water course.

After that death, the first murder of an innocent outsider, the war which Anse Havey had so long foreseen broke furiously and brought the orders of upland and lowland to the grip of bitter animosity.

Old McGreegor's victim had been young Roy Calvin, the son of Judge Calvin of Lexington, and the name of Calvin in central Kentucky was one associated with the state's best traditions.

It had run in a strong, bright thread through the pattern of Kentucky's achievements, and when news of the wanton assassination came home, the state awoke to a shock of horror. The infamy of the hills was screamed in echo to the mourning, and the name of Bad Anse Havey was once more printed in large type.

The men whose capital sought to wrest profit from the hills, and whose employee had been slain, were quick to take advantage of this hue and cry of calamity.

They hurled themselves into the fight for gaining possession of coveted land and were not particular as to methods.

Jim Fletcher came and went constantly between the lowlands and highlands. He was all things to all men, and in the hills he cursed the lowlander, but in the lowland he cursed the hills. Milt and Jeb and Anse rode constantly from cabin to cabin in their efforts to circumvent the adroit schemes of the mountain Judas who had sold his soul to the lowland syndicate.

Fletcher sought a foothold for capital to pierce fields acquired at the price of undeveloped land and then to take the profit of development. Anse sought to hold title until the sales could be on a fairer basis and so the issue was made up.

Capitalists, like Malcolm, who sat in directors' rooms launching a legitimate enterprise, had no actual knowledge of the instrumentalities being employed on the real battlefield. Lawyers tried condemnation suits with indifferent success, and then reached out their hands for a new weapon.

Back in the old days, when Kentucky was not a state but a county, land patents had been granted by Virginia to men who had never claimed their property. For two hundred years other men who settled as pioneers had held undisturbed possession, they and their children's children. Now into the courts piled multitudinous suits of eviction in the names of plaintiffs whose eyes had never seen the broken skyline of the Cumberland. Their purpose was deceit, since it sought to drag through long and costly litigation pauper landholders and to impose such a galling burden upon their property as should drive them to terms of surrender.

Men and women who owned, or thought they owned, a log shack and a tilting cornfield found themselves facing a new and bewildering crisis. Their untutored minds brooded and they talked violently of holding by title of rifle what their fathers had wrested from nature, what they had tended with sweat and endless toil.

But Anse Havey and Milt McBriar knew that the day was at hand when the rifle would no longer serve. They employed lawyers fitted to meet those other lawyers and give them battle in the courts, and these lawyers were paid by Anse Havey and Milt McBriar.

The two stood stanchly together as a buffer between their almost helpless people and the encroaching tentacles of the new octopus, while Juanita, looking on at the forming of the battlelines, was torn with anxiety.

In Bad Anse Havey the combination of interests recognized its really most formidable foe. In the mountain phrase, he must be "man-powered outen their way." And there were still men in the hills who, if other means failed, would sell the service of their "rifle-guns" for money.

With such as these it became the care of certain supernumeraries to establish an understanding. In the last election a thing had happened which had not for many years before happened in Kentucky—a change of parties had swept from power in Frankfort the administration which owed loyalty to Havey influences.

Bad Anse Havey was indicted as an accessory to the murder of young Calvin and he would be tried, not in Peril, but in the Blue Grass. The prosecution would be able to show that he had warned the surveyors off his own place and had picketed his fence line with riflemen. They would be able to show that he was the forefront of the fight against innovation and that lesser mountain men followed his counsel blindly and regarded his word as law. But, more than that, the jurors who passed on his question of life and death would be drawn from a community which knew him only by his newspaper-made reputation.

So it was not long before Anse Havey lay in a cell in the Winchester jail. He had been denied bond and fronted a dreary prospect.

When the trial of Anse Havey began there was one spirit in the land. Here was an exponent of the unjustifiable system of murder from ambush. In the cemetery at Lexington, where sleep the founders of the western empire, lay a boy whose life had just begun in all the blossom and sunshine of promise—and who had done no wrong.

The special term of the court had brought to Winchester a throng of farmer folk and onlookers. Their horses stood hitched at the racks about the square when the sheriff led Anse Havey from the jail to the old building where he was to face his accusers and the judges who sat on the bench and in the jury box.

He took his seat with his counsel at his elbow and listened to the preliminary formalities of impaneling a jury. His face told nothing, but as man after man was excused because he had formed an opinion, he read little that was hopeful in the outlook.

He calmly heard perjured witnesses from his own country testify that he had approached them, offering bribes for the killing of young Calvin which they had righteously refused. He knew that these men had been bought by Jim Fletcher and that they swore for the hire or syndicate money, but he only waited patiently for the defense to open. He saw the scowl on the faces in the jury box deepen into conviction as witness after witness took the stand against him, and he saw the faces in the body of the room mirror that scowl.

Then the prosecution rested, and as a few of its perjuries were punctured, the faces in the box lightened their scowl a little—but very little. The tide had set against him, and he knew it. Unless one of those strangely psychological things should occur which sweep juries suddenly from their moorings of fixed opinion, he must be the sacrifice to Blue Grass wrath, and on the list of witnesses under the hand of his attorney there were only a few names left—pitifully few.

Then Anse Havey saw his chief counsel set his jaw, as he had a trick of setting it when he faced a forlorn hope, and throw the list of names aside as something worthless. As the lawyer spoke Anse Havey's face for the first time lost its immobility and showed amazement. He bent forward, wondering if his ears had not tricked him. His attorneys had not consulted him as to this step.

"Mr. Sheriff," commanded the lawyer for the defense, "call Miss Juanita Holland to the stand."

NO RECEPTION READY FOR CONGRESSIONAL UNION

Suffragettes in Indianapolis Are Not Enthusiastic About Automobile Cavalcade.

(By a United Press Staff Correspondent.)

Indianapolis, Ind., Nov. 8.—Prospects were for a typical November reception for the automobile-cavalcade of the Congressional Union for Women Suffrage when it arrives here to-day. The reception probably will be chilly. Suffragettes in Indianapolis are not strong for the Congressional Union.

The cavalcade is enroute from San Francisco to Washington, carrying hundreds of thousands of suffrage petitions. It plans to call upon several Indiana congressmen before leaving the state and sound them on the suffrage issue.

Whatever greetings the cavalcade gets here probably will be extemporaneous. If attempts made to organize a local reception committee have succeeded, it is not known. The Congressional Union is the rather bitter rival of the National American Woman Suffrage Association, with which the Woman's Franchise League of Indiana is allied.

Mrs. Meredith Nicholson is a member of the Congressional Union, and the Union organizers wrote her, asking that she organize a welcome. But Mrs. Nicholson also is a member of the Woman's Franchise League—and she wrote back to the Chicago organizers that she would not be in Indianapolis today. Before leaving the city she informed the United Press that she had not turned the Union letters over to other Indianapolis women, and that she knew nothing whatever about anything for a welcome.

Another announced plan was for Governor Ralston to welcome the cavalcade from the steps of the Statehouse. But Gov. Ralston is in Ohio today, and at the Governor's office nothing was known of a welcome to be performed.

A woman connected with the Woman's Franchise League in an official capacity explained to-day that the methods of the two suffrage organizations differ. "The Union leaders obtained their training in England and are more militant," she said. "Then they differ in other ways. For example, they have been attacking the Democratic party in the west, while we avoid party lines. They first announced that they did not believe in organization, but seeing that without organization they would fail, they are now entering various states where we are organized and are trying to disrupt our organization."

No one was found who would say that the chilly reception promised the cavalcade is due to activities of the Woman's Franchise League.

Miss Effie Tovey, of Brownstown, who spent the week-end with Miss Carrie Aufderheide, returned to her home this morning.

Thousands have this disease—and don't know it

You may be afflicted with that dread disease of the teeth, pyorrhea, and not be aware of it. It is the most general disease in the world! The germ which causes it inhabits every human mouth—your mouth, and is constantly trying to start its work of destruction there.

Don't wait until the advanced stages of the disease appear in the form of bleeding gums, tenderness in chewing and loose teeth. You can begin now to ward off these terrible results. Accept the advice dentists everywhere are giving, and take special precautions by using a local treatment in your daily toilet.

To meet this need for local treatment and to enable everyone to take the necessary precautions against this disease, a prominent dentist has put his own prescription before the public

FORT WAYNE STREET CAR STRIKE IN FEDERAL COURT

Traction Company Trying to Prevent Disorders in Continuing Service.

By United Press.

Indianapolis, Nov. 8.—Mayor William C. Hoesy and the city of Fort Wayne together with leaders in Fort Wayne and Northern Indiana Traction Company were defendants today in Federal court in injunction proceedings brought by the bondholders of the company. A temporary injunction is asked preventing opposition to the traction company. The whole affair is an outgrowth of street car strike called in Fort Wayne six weeks ago.

Although the traction company asserts that the strike is practically won by the company, in that cars are working with new employees; the attempt here to-day is to prevent disorders said to result from the activities of the strikers and their sympathizers.

Unionized labor in Fort Wayne totals more than 8,000 according to the complaint of the traction company, and this, it is alleged, has united against the company with the result that the receipts have been seriously reduced.

The complaint gives as the cause of the strike that leaders of the men asked the company to conduct a "closed" shop and also to break its existing agreement with the employees. Charges that the present employees of the company have been assaulted; that rocks and other missiles have been hurled against the company's property and that the citizens of Fort Wayne have been terrorized by former employees, are made in the complaint.

Two members of the jitney Buss Drivers' Association, whose business has greatly increased during the strike, are among the defendants.

persons who said it was apparent that he was partly intoxicated. By one friend he was advised to return home on the 5:55 eastbound B. & O. Southwestern passenger train and he promised to do this. It is probable that during the night he tried to board a train which he thought was going to North Vernon and by mistake got on a Pennsylvania train. It is not known which train killed him, but from the condition of his body it is thought he met death about midnight. Downs drank considerably, it is stated, and was off duty two or three days after each pay day. He was paid twice each month, it is said. He was twenty-three years old and was unmarried. He received his semi-monthly wages on November 5 and on that day or the day following went to Osgood. From there he is thought to have come here.

The body was prepared for burial and taken to North Vernon Sunday night. The funeral occurred at Dupont this afternoon. Edgar Downs, brother of the dead man, accompanied the remains to North Vernon.

Coroner Dickmeyer places little credence in the rumors that the man was murdered and the body placed on the track to cover up the crime. There is no reason why he should have been shot by anyone, the coroner believes, as he had no money. Only a nickle was found on him after his death. Downs was not in a quarrelsome mood Saturday night, it is stated, and is not known to have had any trouble with any one. The police say that his condition was not such that he attracted their attention at any time during the afternoon or night.

The police know nothing concerning the shots that were fired late Saturday night except what they have heard on the streets. The pistol reports were sufficiently loud to awaken residents several blocks away.

She was almost drowned and had the men been a few seconds later, her life would not have been saved. Mr. Hays was seen by a Monitor reporter in St. Louis county immediately after the accident and says the team he lost by the accident was a valuable one. Also that he lost over a hundred dollars worth of books. Some silver ware, a large quantity of provisions, canned fruit and jewelry were also in the wagon. He has some insurance on the outfit. Mr. Hays arrived in St. Charles Wednesday evening and spent the night at Feurstein's Stable and crossed the river Thursday morning on the Fawn's first trip.

Capt. Bergfeld of the Fawn states that this is the first accident of this nature to happen since the ferry was established here 11 years ago. Others claim that better arrangement should be made by the ferry company, for teams going on and off the boat and protection against accidents while on it.

Eye witnesses to the accident state that the wagon drifted fully 200 yards before Mrs. Hays was rescued. Her son, Vane Hays was on the ferry boat, when the accident occurred. Mrs. Hays made no cry while in the water or at the time of the accident but when rescued and taken aboard the steamer, she fainted. She is very nervous, and has not recovered from the shock. Christ Bull of this city, saw the whole occurrence from this side of the river.
